BOOKS OF THE WEEK.

PHILOSOPHY, SCIENCE, &c.

Thought Transference, Crystal Gazing. By Northcote W. Thomas. (The De La More Press, 3s. 6d. net each.) Two handbooks, treating the subjects in a scientific manner. The book on crystal gazing has an introduction by Mr. Andrew Lang.

Philosophy and Christianity. An introduction to the works of Schopenhauer. Part I. "A Defence of Pessimism." By David Irvine. (Watts, 1s. 6d. net.) This is the first of a series of books intended to lay down a view of life expounded by Schopenhauer as the Philosophy of Liberalism. The author's object is to put a stop to the "outrageous misrepresentation to which Schopenhauer is subjected by professors and optimists generally." The author holds that "what is wanted, in addition to a scientific and historical attack on orthodox religion, is a philosophical, and that it is difficult to believe that any other philosophy than that of Schopenhauer can lay the foundation to this."

The Geology of South Africa. By F. H. Hatch and G. S. Corstorphine. (Macmillan, 21s. net.) An attempt to correlate and systematise the information collected in the recent surveys of Cape Colony, Transvaal, and Natal, and by private enterprise. Both writers have been engaged in geological work in South Africa for many years. The book is illustrated with maps, diagrams, and photographs.

POLITICS, SOCIOLOGY, &c.

The Russian Revolutionary Movement. By Konni Zilliacus. (Alston Rivers, 7s. 6d. net.) Written originally with the object of enlightening public opinion in Finland, where until lately the people had no sympathy with the revolutionists. The author, though an enemy of the autocracy, has tried to be impartial. Statements of fact have been checked by reference to other than revolutionary sources of information.

Modern Housing in Town and Country. By J. Cornes. (Batsford, 7s. 6d. net.) A review of the housing problem, illustrated by examples of municipal and other schemes of block dwellings, tenement houses, model cottages and villages, with plans and descriptions of the Cheap Cottages Exhibition.

EDUCATIONAL.

A Book of Song Games and Ball Games. Adapted for school use. By Kate F. Brenner. (G. Philip and Son, 3s. 6d. net.) The song games described in the book are those of Swedish children, for Sweden is particularly rich in folksongs and games. Miss Brenner is the infant mistress at a school in Edinburgh, and the games have been most successful among her children. The tunes are all Swedish, except one German one. The more advanced of the ball games are intended for older girls. Many of them are played with a football, though with the hands. The directions are very plain and concise.

COUNTRIES, PLACES, &c.

Selborne. By N. W. Tompkins. (Dent, 1s. 6d. net.) A volume of the Temple Topographic Series. A general account of the village, antiquities, natural history, and associations of Selborne, and of its connection with Gilbert White. Illustrated with pen drawings by Mr. H. J. Howard.

FICTION.

The Storm Centre. By Charles Egbert Craddock. (The Macmillan Co. 1905. 6s.) Anybody who has read The Prophet of the Great Smoky Mountains will take up The Storm Centre with great expectations. Miss Murfree, alias C. E. Craddock, who has rare artistic temperament, is far too little known in England.

The Parish Nurse. By Mary E. Mann. (Methuen. 1905. 6s.) Mrs. Mann has written one of the best studies of rural English life made in this generation, viz., The Tales of Dulditch. Her new novel, The Parish Nurse, calls for close attention.

The Opal Serpent. By Fergus Hume. (John Long. 1905. 6s.) Mr. John Long is the most enterprising of all the publishers who strive to supply the English public with those well-known brands of fiction which best satisfy their cravings. The names of the writers of the six novels which we have received this week from Mr. Long, Fergus Hume, Lucas Cleeve, Mrs. Campbell Praed, L. T. Meade, Curtis Yorke, and Seth Cook Comstock, speak as eloquently for Mr. Long's powers of catering as for the public's inexhaustible appetite and the unsleeping diligence of these brothers and sisters of the pen.

Alix of the Glen. By Curtis Yorke. (John Long, 1905, 6s.)

The Maid of the River. By Mrs. Campbell Praed. (John Long. 1905. 6s.)

His Mascot. By L. T. Meade. (John Long. 1905. 6s.)

Saint Elizabeth of London. By Lucas Cleeve. (John Long. 1905. 6s.)

The Rebel Prince. By Seth Cook Comstock. (John Long. 1905. 6s.)

The Little Hills. By Nancy Huston Banks. (Macmillan. 6s.)

The Ambitions of Jenny Ingram. By Flora Klickmann. (Religious Tract Society. 2s.)

One of a Mob. By Nat Gould. (John Long. Boards, 2s.; cloth, 2s. 6d.)

Phil Conway. By A. C. Gunter. (Ward, Lock. 6s.)

Ivan Ilyitch: The Study of a Russian Bureaucrat. By Leo Tolstoy. (Fifield. 6d.)

SECOND IMPRESSION.

Towards a Social Policy.

SUGGESTIONS FOR

CONSTRUCTIVE DOMESTIC REFORM.

By Various Writers.

Representing the conclusions of a Committee consisting of Messrs. C. R. BUXTON, H. C. FAIRFAX-CHOLMELEY, J. L. HAMMOND, F. W. HIRST, L. T. HOBHOUSE, J. A. HOBSON, C. F. G. MASTERMAN, J. H. MORGAN, and VAUGHAN NASH.

"It is clear that the Liberal Party is going to have a big—perhaps a colossal majority. What will it do with that majority? That, I fear, is not so clear. We must all welcome, therefore, such a volume as the Speaker Office has produced under the title of 'Towards a Social Policy.' It is full of hard thinking and solid information, and should be a mine for platform speakers in the coming General Election."—DAILY CHRONICLE.

"The book should be in the hand of everyone who loves his country. It is a lucid and comprehensive statement of the causes of the blight that is falling upon the race, and of the remedies to be applied."—DAILY NEWS.

"'Towards a Social Policy' decidedly 'gives us to think.' Its authors are doing the Liberal Party a notable service."—WESTMINSTER GAZETTE.

"They (the readers) will find within its hundred and twenty odd pages much keen diagnosis of existing evils, much outspoken criticism of the slipshod palliatives with which we have hitherto been content to attempt to meet them, and many bold suggestions—some very bold indeed—as to the direction in which the real remedies are to be found. They may not agree. They cannot fail to be interested."—MORNING LEADER.
